Sometimes when we rescue a dog, we have little idea of what its behavioral “quirks” may be. Please keep a close eye on your foster friend for the first few days to be sure s/he doesn’t eat your couch, terrorize your cat, or become an Olympic high jump contender as s/he sails over your fence.

Unfortunately, we can’t be responsible if a dog damages your property or otherwise causes problems. What we CAN do is loan you a crate, if necessary, treat for fleas and ticks prior to the dog coming to your home, and advise you to the best of our ability of what we have observed. In addition, if there are behavioral issues that you cannot deal with, we are always willing to take the dog back.

Please indicate that you understand the above, and assume the risks explained above.
